

Comments from Pete Bromley, Ph.D., Wildlife Extension Agent Emeritus, North Carolina State University

“It is a life work, a great scholarly achievement, and it conveys your unbridled enthusiasm for hunting as a way for a boy to become a good man, for man’s spiritual bond to Mother Nature, and your belief that one man can make a difference... impressed by the breadth of your supporting themes and the depth of your reading and conversations with like-minded souls...”